

The document automation solution of choice for law firms.

Thomson Reuters Contract Express.

The need for document automation is part of a growing trend for law firms to improve their efficiency, and is one of the most popular technologies adopted to do so, with 42% of law firms choosing to automate documents.*

What are the three main drivers for this?

- > 1 Drafting efficiency
- > 2 Increased standardisation and improved quality of precedent bank
- > 3 Client offering differentiation

What practice areas are more likely to automate their documents?

What documents are they automating?

Why are they picking Contract Express above other solutions?

-

Easy to use template document questionnaire
-

Ease of creating automated documents using Contract Express Author
-

Comprehensive service and support offering

100% of Contract Express users say that it has benefited their firm in some way

The specific benefits they are seeing are:

-
- Reduction of risk of errors in first drafts
 - Freeing up partner and associate time for more value-add work
 - Improving their ability to maintain precedents
 - Enhanced their client offering
 - Sped up their transaction completion time

Over 90% of customers say that using Contract Express has saved them on average 30% of their time daily.

Share:

Visit: legal-solutions.co.uk/contractexpress

*The data in this infographic comes from a 2018 Contract Express user survey and a 2018 PWC law firm survey report.