Thomson Reuters Legal Search Connect.

Simultaneously search multiple resources using world-class information retrieval technology from Thomson Reuters.

With Legal Search Connect, formerly Solcara Legal Search, your internal databases and your external legal information resources can be brought together into one smart, simple and streamlined system that is tuned to the needs of your legal department or individual practice group.

The services available help you:

Improve individual search methods and results via UK & Ireland's leading federated search technology

Configure resources according to what's relevant to your firm, supports the capture, classification, browsing and searching of your internal know-how, as well as analyses and reports on usage at a firm-wide, practice area or individual level

Streamline your research by removing the need for remembering a separate login across multiple products from various suppliers and by giving you access to a knowledge management application designed for professional service firms

Connect your sources – integrate Practical Law, Westlaw UK and any other existing document management system or intranet onto Legal Search Connect

Why get Legal Search Connect?

Increase efficiency. Save time. Control costs. Reduce risk.

The rapid pace of change in legislation, the need to access the most up-to-date case law and the growing pressure of regulation and compliance in a more litigious world is driving change in the way lawyers access information. To keep pace, firms need to ensure that they not only have access to internal content, but also the right high quality online services; ensuring that the method of access is consistent and seamless throughout all offices, information systems and online services. Accessing different systems and services individually is less efficient, can lead to higher costs, inefficient search practices, lack of consistency and higher risk.

Still searching?_

Legal Search Connect is:

- Appropriate to all; from small and medium firms to multi-jurisdictional firms and national and international legal departments who access multiple systems as part of their legal research and knowledge management tasks
- · Comprehensive, incorporating both internal and external online resources
- Extensible, enabling new content resources to be included without significant cost or disruption
- Configurable, allowing different legal teams and practice groups to organise and search only those resources that are most appropriate to them
- Web-based and easy to implement and manage with minimal training and IT involvement
- Embeddable in your SharePoint intranet
- Available in a number of languages

Search with confidence.

Legal Search Connect's search technology helps lawyers and information professionals quickly glide through content from a variety of sources, bringing back precise results from each. The outcome is a high quality, consistent, comprehensive and timely research tool.

By controlling which resources can be searched and how they're searched, you can be confident that your lawyers, paralegals and PSLs are searching in the right way; using all the necessary information available to them and maximising the use of high-value, subscription resources. With minimal training, our software lets you target all the relevant resources and search them simultaneously in real time.

Legal Search Connect is aimed at organisations that rely on a combination of internal databases, as well as external, web-based resources to support their decision-making.
